

Christopher Nielsen v. Concord General Mutual Insurance Co.

Held: January 8, 2019 - Docket No: INS-18-2065

Decision Issued: January 10, 2019

The named insured requested a hearing to contest the cancellation of an automobile policy for suspension of his driver's license. The company demonstrated that the insured's license had been suspended and that it had sufficient grounds for cancellation.

Held: For the company. Maine law under 24-A M.R.S. section 2914(4) allows an insurer to cancel a policy if the insured's driver's license is suspended during the policy period. The company presented sufficient evidence to prove that the insured's driver's license had been suspended during the terms of the policy.
